Congratulations! You are an official Ivy Tech Community College student simultaneously earning college and high school credit by taking dual credit classes. Best of all, the dual credit you earn is free!

Dual credit classes will give you a jump start on higher education. After graduating high school, you can make your dual credits work even harder by earning an associate degree or certificate from Ivy Tech. Some students even accumulate enough credits to earn a certificate while still in high school.

Now that you’ve applied for dual credit, at no cost to your family, you need to make sure your hard work pays off. To earn these credits, you must pass your class with a grade of C or higher, and work with your dual credit coordinator to ensure those credits show up on your transcript.

Your credits may apply toward Start as a Sophomore, also known as the Statewide Transfer General Education Core (STGEC) where you earn a 30-credit hour certificate that transfers to all public four-year colleges in Indiana. Learn more at IvyTech.edu/startasasophomore.

Take note of your Ivy Tech Community College student identification as this ID will stay with you throughout your Ivy Tech career.

Upon completion of high school certainly keep Ivy Tech Community College in mind. With more than 40 locations across Indiana, hundreds of online classes, and opportunities to get involved on campus, Ivy Tech provides a high-quality experience. Whether your post-high school goals include continuing on to earn a Bachelor’s degree, or starting your career right away, Ivy Tech is the right choice.

Best of luck in your dual credit class and we look forward to serving you throughout your educational journey!