MUSIC SYNTHESIZERS & AUDIO SYNTHESIS

For Grades 6-8 | $150

7/10-7/14 | 1pm-4pm | Register

Bob Wolanin

From creating the sound of a flute and violin to a screaming electric guitar or alien spaceships, laser beams and other worldly soundscapes, electronic music and sounds created by audio synthesizers have been a staple in music and film soundtracks since their inception. The past couple of years has seen a huge resurgence of interest in these unique and highly creative audio tools. That sound of a soda can being opened in the commercial you just watched was created by an audio synthesizer! Nearly all the soundtrack and sound effects to your favorite video game or movie were composed and created by these fascinating instruments. You hear them every day and probably aren't aware of it. The class will utilize open source (free) software synthesizers so you will be able to keep exploring and growing long after the class is over. A few hardware guest stars will make their appearance through the week for a real hands on experience! All supplies provided. This camp is for rising 6th-8th graders.

With a focus on fostering imagination and collaboration, campers will devise their own theater pieces by using classic fairytales to explore different points of view. Skill-building theater exercises, along with improvisation games and activities, will focus on acting, movement, and storytelling. Campers will gain self-confidence, respect for others, and a greater ability to express themselves both physically and vocally, all while making new friends along the way!

STONEGATE PERFORMING ARTS CAMP: THE FLOATING HOUSE

For Grades 3-6 | $75 | Becky Muncy + Bill Morgan
6/19-6/23 | 9am-12pm | Register

If you enjoy singing, dancing, playing instruments and Indiana history, this camp is for you! The week will be based on the book The Floating House by Scott Russell Sanders: "It's 1815 and the McClure family is floating down the Ohio River in a flatboat loaded with their wagon, farm tools, and household goods, as well as their horse, cow, pig and mule. With a pioneering spirit of adventure, supported by the security of family and fellow settlers, the McClure's are looking for Jeffersonville, Indiana, where they'll build their new home." -

Students will learn songs, dances, play musical instruments that coordinate with the story in The Floating House. The camp will conclude with a short program for parents and friends.

STONEGATE VISUAL ARTS CAMP: PAINTING LETTERS

For Grades 6-8 | $85

6/12-6/16 | 9am-12pm | Register

7/17-7/21 | 9am-12pm | Register

In this painting camp for rising 6th-8th graders, students will take the lyrics of a song, lines a book, story, or poem, or the names of their friends and family, for example, to create the foundation for their illustration/painting. We'll use pencil to write out the letters on the canvas, which will intertwine, overlap, turn sideways, invert them, even writing them backwards to create intricate designs on the canvas to be painted. This camp is great for students who are new to the visual arts or for artists with some experience who want to try something new!
